RESEARCH

2011-2013 University Hospitals Case Medical Center Cleveland, OH

- An Evaluation of Diagnostic Tests in Bullous Pemphigoid
- IRB approved prospective and retrospective study comparing sensitivities and specificities of diagnostic tests in BP including clinical exam findings, H&E, DIF, IIF and ELISA (BP180, BP230). Hypothesize that the combination of clinical exam findings and BP180 +/- BP230 will be more sensitive and specific, and more cost effective than other combinations of tests. Goal is to demonstrate a new diagnostic algorithm with greater accuracy of diagnosis and more cost-effective modalities.
- Principal Investigator: Dr. Neil Korman MD, PhD
- Findings published in Archives of Dermatological Research February 2016. Collaborator Dr. Jesse Keller, MD

2009 St. Vincent Hospital Erie, PA

- Research assistant in a pivotal clinical trial entitled: A Prospective, Multi-center, Randomized, Controlled Clinical Investigation of Dermagraft® in Subjects with Venous Leg Ulcers DEVO-Trial
- Mentor: Dr Anthony Serena MD
